T HE F INAL T OAST ! They bombed Tokyo 73 years ago.

They once were among the most universally admired and revered men in the United States .. There were 80 of the Raiders in April 1942, when they carried out one of the most courageous and heart-stirring military operations in this nation's history. The mere mention of their unit's name, in those years, would bring tears to the eyes of grateful Americans.

After Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, with the United States reeling and wounded, something dramatic was needed to turn the war effort around.

Even though there were no friendly airfields close enough to Japan for the United States to launch a retaliation, a daring plan was devised. Sixteen B-25s were modified so that they could take off from the deck of an aircraft carrier. This had never before been tried -- sending such big, heavy bombers from a carrier.

The 16 five-man crews, under the command of Lt. Col. James Doolittle, who himself flew the lead plane off the USS Hornet, knew that they would not be able to return to the carrier. They would have to hit Japan and then hope to make it to China for a safe landing.

BP Katz on Proposals to Rent Flushing Meadows-Corona Park

Borough President Melinda Katz stated the following in response to questions about applications filed by for-profit organizations recently with the City to shut down major portions of Flushing Meadows-Corona Park to the public in order to accommodate paid-admission events next summer:

"Queens is increasingly becoming a premier destination for entertainment, culture and tourism. While public events of any scale that enhance our borough are encouraged, I take issue when it is at the expense of cutting off public access to our treasured parks like Flushing Meadows-Corona Park, which is enjoyed by thousands of families and residents every week in the summer months. Doing so without a public review process would fly in the face of the very principle behind our public parks, which is space designated for public access and equity.

"The use of our public parks – especially one as utilized as Flushing Meadows-Corona Park – must be coordinated and planned under an official city policy, because the absence of one renders the entire process

Point of View

But on the day of the raid, the Japanese military caught wind of the plan. The Raiders were told that they would have to take off from much farther out in the Pacific Ocean than they had counted on. They were told that because of this they would not have enough fuel to make it to safety.
And those men went anyway.

They bombed Tokyo and then flew as far as they could. Four planes crash-landed; 11 more crews bailed out, and three of the Raiders died. Eight more were captured; three were executed.

Another died of starvation in a Japanese prison camp. One crew made it to Russia.

The Doolittle Raiders sent a message from the United States to its enemies, and to the rest of the world: We will fight. And, no matter what it takes, we will win.

Of the 80 Raiders, 62 survived the war. They were celebrated as national heroes, models of bravery. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced a motion picture based on the raid; "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," starring Spencer Tracy and Van Johnson, was a patriotic and emotional box-office hit, and the phrase became part of the national lexicon. In the movie-theater previews for the film, MGM proclaimed that it was presenting the story "with supreme pride."

Beginning in 1946, the surviving Raiders have held a reunion each April, to commemorate the mission. The reunion is in a different city each year. In 1959, the city of Tucson, Arizona, as a gesture of respect and gratitude, presented the Doolittle Raiders with a set of 80 silver goblets. Each goblet was engraved with the name of a Raider.

Every year, a wooden display case bearing all 80 goblets is transported to the reunion city. Each time a Raider passes away, his goblet is turned upside down in the case at the next reunion, as his old friends bear solemn witness.

Al so in the wooden case is a bottle of 1896 Hennessy Very Special cognac. The year is not happenstance: 1896 was when Jimmy Doolittle was born.

There has always been a plan: When there are only two surviving Raiders, they would open the bottle, at last drink from it, and toast their comrades who preceded them in death.

As 2013 began, there were five living Raiders; then, in February, Tom Griffin passed away at age 96.

What a man he was. After bailing out of his plane over a mountainous Chinese forest after the Tokyo raid, he became ill with malaria, and almost died. When he recovered, he was sent to Europe to fly more combat missions. He was shot down, captured, and spent 22 months in a German prisoner of war camp.

The selflessness of these men, the sheer guts ... there was a passage in the Cincinnati Enquirer obituary for Mr. Griffin that, on the surface, had nothing to do with the war, but that was emblematic of the depth of his sense of duty and devotion:

Now only four survive.

"When his wife became ill and needed to go into a nursing home, he visited her every day. He walked from his house to the nursing home, fed his wife and at the end of the day brought home her clothes. At night, he washed and ironed her clothes. Then he walked them up to her room the next morning. He did that for three years until her death in 2005."

So now, out of the original 80, only four Raiders remain: Dick Cole (Doolittle's co-pilot on the Tokyo raid), Robert Hite, Edward Saylor and David Thatcher. All are in their 90s. They have decided that there are too few of them for the public reunions to continue.

The events in Fort Walton Beach marked the end. It has come full circle; Florida's nearby Eglin Field was where the Raiders trained in secrecy for the Tokyo mission. The town planned to do all it can to honor the men: a six-day celebration of their valor, including luncheons, a dinner and a parade.

Do the men ever wonder if those of us for whom they helped save the country have tended to it in a way that is worthy of their sacrifice? They don't talk about that, at least not around other people. But if you find yourself near Fort Walton Beach this week, and if you should encounter any of the Raiders, you might want to offer them a word of thanks. I can tell you from first hand observation that they appreciate hearing that they are remembered.

The men have decided that after this final public reunion they will wait until a later date -- sometime this year -- to get together once more, informally and in absolute privacy. That is when they will open the bottle of brandy. The years are flowing by too swiftly now; they are not going to wait until there are only two of them.

They will fill the four remaining upturned goblets. And raise them in a toast to those who are gone.

Queens Elected Officials to Hold Resource Fair For Borough Veterans

Congresswoman Meng, Borough President Katz, Councilwoman Crowley, State Senator Addabbo, Assemblymembers Markey, Miller and Nolan to team up to make Queens veterans aware of benefits and services available to them

Several elected officials from Queens announced that they will team up to host a special resource fair for borough veterans on Thursday, November 12 – the week of Veterans Day – from 6 to 8 p.m. at P.S./I.S. 49 in Middle Village.

The event, designed to help Queens veterans access the many benefits and services that are available to them through government agencies on the federal, state and city levels, will be sponsored by U.S. Rep. Grace Meng, Queens Borough President Melinda Katz, New York City Councilwoman Elizabeth Crowley, New York State Senator Joseph Addabbo, and New York Assemblymembers Margaret Markey, Mike Miller and Catherine Nolan.

The event will also include presentations by representatives from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, and several other state and city agencies, groups and advocates.

Although veterans are entitled to receive numerous benefits and services, many are unsure how to access these important resources. In addition, many veterans are unaware that they even exist.

The Veterans Resource Fair is open to all free of charge. No RSVP is necessary. It will take place in P.S./I.S. 49's cafeteria. The school is located at 63-60 80th Street in Middle Village.

Facebook, Queens Chamber of Commerce Hosted Free Workshop For Queens Small Businesses

Congressman Joe Crowley Kicked Off Event and Greeted Attendees

Over 250 Queens small businesspeople turned out for Facebook's Boost Your Business seminar, where they learned how to optimize their presence and engage customers on the world's largest social network.

Queens Chamber of Commerce co-hosted the event with Congressman Joe Crowley kicking off the seminar.

"Well unlike yesterday's game, we are going to hit a couple of home runs here today," said Congressman Crowley. "In the 21st century economy, it is vital for small businesses to have an online footprint. 8 in 10 people are connected to at least one small business through the Facebook platform. This is a fantastic forum to advertise what you are doing for your community.

Facebook small business expert Ana Martinez shared the latest Facebook best practices and strategies for success.

A panel of local small businesspeople shared their best Facebook tips and tricks in the following Q&A session. The panelists represented the following local small businesses: child and family clinical psychologist Dr. Karen Caraballo and laser tag, paintball and arcade destination Indoor Extreme Sports.

"We use Facebook to let people know the exciting stuff that we have at Indoor Extreme Sports," said Peter Fermoselle of Indoor Extreme Sports. "We want to make our customers look like superstars. If we have a photo of someone running around playing archery tag looking like Rambo, we are going to use that. We are going to post and promote that and it generates a conversation on the post. Friends comment asking where he did that and how he did that. It generates a conversation and buzz. Now, we have even found companies who the number one corporate outing is archery tag!"

Before the presentation, local business development organizations networked with attendees to share community resources available to Queens small businesses. These organizations included: Queens Chamber of Commerce, Queens Women's Business Center, Southeast Queens Chamber of Commerce, Women Entrepreneurs NYC, Queens Business Outreach Center, and Jamaica Center Business Improvement District.

How do Facebook and small businesses connect?

- There are more than 45 million small businesses using Facebook to connect with customers.
- Approximately 8 in 10 people in the US are connected to at least one small business on Facebook.

arbitrary and unfair. There must also be engagement with the affected community and a real accounting of the adverse and residual impacts on the surrounding neighborhoods. Quite frankly, it's still unclear how limited resources expended for events of such scale would be returned to Queens and its families.

"These proposals to rent out precious public parkland to for-profit organizations for paid-admission events are therefore not acceptable at this time. It has never been done before in Queens, and without a fair city policy approved by the community to properly shape this significant precedent, we should not start now."

Flushing Meadows-Corona Park hosts thousands of families every week in the summer months, and residents would otherwise be limited in access to alternative space for countless activities like soccer, softball, baseball, tennis, cricket, bicycling, family picnics, BBQs, birthdays, weddings and other special events.

If the applications submitted this week are granted, it would be the first time ever for Queens to lend its treasured public parkland to for-profit organizations for paid-admission events. The dates requested would displace several standing homegrown events enjoyed by tens of thousands of Queens residents including the annual World's Fair Anniversary Festival, the Louis Armstrong Festival and, of course, our beloved Mets.

Whirl With Merle

Fall Behind But Spring Forward On Your Home By Merle Exit

Fall cleaning and home repairs were at the top of my "to do" list, both of which I had to rely on others to fulfill. Cleaning was an issue. Social media offers with a discount first time price. I have tried a few. The workers want to do the quickest job with the least amount of effort. I decide on Keen Green Cleaning Service. Eco-friendly and bring their own cleaning products. Although they are located in the Bronx, they service the other boroughs as well as areas of New Jersey and Westchester County. Looks like they were given the best janitorial awards in the Bronx. Let's see how they handle my home in Queens.

I chose the two hour deal. I can wash my dishes and vacuum that one rug in the living room. With two cats and not being allergic to either the cats or dust, flying fur builds up not to mention that Dust "R" Us has a totally free service that includes delivery.

What do you look for when choosing a company? Do you want Eco-friendly if they provide the products? Would you rather provide your own products? Do you need to provide the vacuum, broom, mop or any other items? Keep in mind that you really don't want to have a company take cleaning utensils from one house to another. Will there be any communication issue between you and the workers in explaining what needs to be done and not done? Even after providing Amazon Local with my charge card, one company wanted my charge card in case the time ran over. You already agreed on the price and time. Do not use that company.

With a description of what the company will do, make your own list of what you want done in the amount of time agreed to beginning with priorities.

How did it go? Only a smell of "clean" was detected. I didn't have to open all the windows as I had to do in the past. I walked around in my bare feet to test out the floors and nothing stuck to them (Dirt is drawn to the sweat in my feet). It turns out that they make their own products. Do they work? Check online to find out how to make your own household products. "Elbow grease" helps as well.

Lance Andrade is the owner of Keen Green Cleaning company and an environmental enthusiast. He was introduced to the green aspect in early 2013, changing his life and putting him on a "mission to help expand green businesses for the sake of our environment and our world." This is his first green business. Lance sees it as a "business that could benefit the occupant's health and our Mother Earth at the same time." Well, I'm a happy camper.

Having a bad experience with Sears regarding replacement vinyl windows both with the salesman and price ($1000 per window?), I turned to HomeAdvisor for assistance. Reliable Remodelers was one of the companies listed. "Reliable" is defined as able to be trusted to do or provide what is needed and able to be believed. Were they?

Owner John Malanka visited my home to both check out the windows and make his sales pitch. My neighbor came over to listen as he and many of the house owners on the block are always looking to improve and get the best prices. John also brought a small sized sample of the window that I basically requested. He brought a brochure of NorthEast Windows to view the description as well as taking a quick measurement in order to determine the price. Let's just say it was less than half the price that Sears quoted.

John does not to the work but gives it to an employee who will then take it over and supervise. As stairs are a difficulty for me and where most of the windows were being done, I said that I needed to have someone else to accompany. I do not allow strangers to go where I am an unable to see them.

With the contract agreed upon, the next step was having the supervising employee measure as well as assessing if there was any extra work needed in the replacements. Windows now had to be built. They tell me that windows are not stocked. No middle man…less on price. Smart idea.

Price was scheduled with three payments: deposit, supervisor's visit, final payment when completed. I have become skeptic with so many scams, etc. On the day of installation, they arrived only a bit early as I waited for someone who would be accompanying them upstairs. In the meantime, there was one window to be done not downstairs. I think it's been here since the house was built.

With everything seemingly completed, I later asked my neighbor to check it out. He found a small hole in one of the screens. It wasn't until about a week later that this got done and with much annoyance as the accompaniment request was being ignored and the twice 6pm appointment arrived at 8:45 telling me that he was told, "Any time after 7pm". I had called the office at 7 to find out what was going on. Tim said that he would get back with me. Nothing. At 8pm I called and a different person said that she would find out and get back with me. Nothing. The responsibility was not on the owner, who makes the assumption that his employee is doing a good job. Yes, all was finally done and does look good…but with much insistence. Reliable?

Changing the subject to the Mets bets. Chicago was to send Linguista Beer and Giordano's pizza on one bet. Got some of the pizza sent to me to review. Deep dish pizza sent frozen. Loved the crust, lots of cheese and comes with extra tomato sauce. Probably better if gotten at one of their franchises. Will have to try a similar one from Queens. Doing a beer tasting and will report when I have gotten through each of the samples.

Now that the Mets lost the World Series, cheesecake will be sent to the Sly James, the mayor of Kansas City. DeBlasio is to send Junior's Cheesecake to represent authentic New York cheesecake. Junior's has the hype and money for public relations but certainly not the best. There are two cheesecake companies here in Queens; La Cheesecake and Cascon. Will follow up on this one.

New York Foundation For Eldercare Honors Three at Recognition Dinner to Fund Shingles Vaccination Program

Honorees NYFE Board Member Eva-Maria Tausig and Lorayne C. Fiorillo

At the New York Foundation for Eldercare (NYFE) Recognition Dinner, held to honor outstanding advocates for care of seniors on Thursday, October 29, at 6:00 pm at The 3 West Club in New York City, the focus was fundraising for a program that educates seniors on vaccinations against shingles, a painful disease, and provides free vaccinations.

The honorees were Eva-Maria Tausig, Board Member and Treasurer of the New York Foundation for Eldercare; Lorayne C. Fiorillo, a Managing Director at Wells Fargo, where she is the investment manager of the NYFE portfolio; and Ashley A. Romano, a National Director of Patient Experience and Research Development at CareRite Centers, LLC, which operates skilled nursing facilities. Caryn Resnick, Deputy Commissioner of the New York City Department for the Aging, spoke at the event

The event focused on a shingles education and vaccination program for seniors, which NYFE launched at naturally occurring retirement communities in The Bronx, Brooklyn and Harlem, working with the Visiting Nurse Service of New York and the City of New York's Department for the Aging. The two-part program features education sessions to raise awareness of shingles among elderly New Yorkers, followed by vaccination for those who sign up. NYFE's support of this program enables seniors to receive shingles vaccinations free of charge.

Great Clips Gives America a Way to Thank Veterans

On Veterans Day, Get a Haircut at Great Clips and Give a Free Haircut to a Veteran

Across the nation, Great Clips salons and their customers are showing their appreciation to veterans and members of the military with the "You Can Thank a Veteran" promotion.

On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 2015, all customers who get a haircut at a U.S. Great Clips salon get a free haircut card they can give as a thank you to an active, inactive or retired military member of any branch, including the National Guard. Limit one card per customer, while supplies last.

Veterans and active service members who come in to a Great Clips salon in your area on Nov. 11 get either a free haircut or a free haircut card to redeem with proof of military service through Dec. 31, 2015, at any U.S. Great Clips salon.

Now in its third consecutive year, Great Clips' "You Can Thank a Veteran" promotion has provided nearly half a million free haircuts for military members and veterans.

"Great Clips realizes there is no amount of gratitude we can show to the men and women who have served our country. Giving them a great haircut is a simple, yet meaningful, way to show appreciation for everything our veterans and service members have done for us," says Great Clips CEO Rhoda Olsen, whose husband is a Vietnam veteran. "We invite people to get a haircut at Great Clips on Veterans Day and pick up a free haircut card to pass on to a veteran — whether the veteran is a family member, neighbor, colleague or just someone they know."

"We encourage everyone to spread the word about our 'You Can Thank a Veteran' promotion and visit Great Clips for a haircut on Nov. 11," says Terri Miller, Great Clips senior vice president of marketing and communications. "Great Clips salon owners and their stylists are excited to extend this year's Veterans Day offer to as many veterans and service members as possible and exceed the 225,000 free haircuts they provided in 2014."

Students Take the Pledge to Help Stop Bullying

Council Member Paul Vallone Applauds Vallo & Encourages the Community to Join their Efforts

Vallo Transportation, an independent school bus company located in Whitestone, raised awareness of student safety both on and off school buses by promoting their No Bullying Zone initiative as October's National Bullying Prevention Awareness Month culminated. This endeavor underscores how Vallo champions student safety and works with the community and families to help create a positive experience for students. "Bullying in schools continues to be a serious issue and has damaged, often irrevocably, the lives of so many children and their families. Awareness and education are critical tools in addressing the issue," said Council Member Paul Vallone."Bullying in schools continues to be a serious issue and has damaged, often irreparably, the lives of so many children and their families. Awareness and education are critical tools in addressing the issue," said Council Member Paul Vallone. "I applaud Vallo Transportation for taking the initiative to combat bullying and fostering an atmosphere of respect among students."

Over 500 anti-bullying Bookmarks and T-shirts were distributed to students who took the pledge to: respect each other, refrain from bullying behavior and speak up to help a classmate if he or she is being bullied. Vallo ensures parents are included in their communication plans and provides them with anti-bullying information and resources that outline how to recognize the warning signs and the effects of bullying, and where to go for help.

A major component of this initiative is employee training. Since 2013, Vallo added an extensive learning module to its annual employee training that outlines how to recognize bullying behavior, how to properly intervene, and how to create a supportive school bus climate.

Queens Elected Officials to Hold Resource Fair For Borough Veterans

Congresswoman Meng, Borough President Katz, Councilwoman Crowley, State Senator Addabbo, Assemblymembers Markey, Miller and Nolan to team up to make Queens veterans aware of benefits and services available to them

Several elected officials from Queens announced that they will team up to host a special resource fair for borough veterans on Thursday, November 12 – the week of Veterans Day – from 6 to 8 p.m. at P.S./I.S. 49 in Middle Village.

The event, designed to help Queens veterans access the many benefits and services that are available to them through government agencies on the federal, state and city levels, will be sponsored by U.S. Rep. Grace Meng, Queens Borough President Melinda Katz, New York City Councilwoman Elizabeth Crowley, New York State Senator Joseph Addabbo, and New York Assemblymembers Margaret Markey, Mike Miller and Catherine Nolan.

The event will also include presentations by representatives from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, and several other state and city agencies, groups and advocates.

Although veterans are entitled to receive numerous benefits and services, many are unsure how to access these important resources. In addition, many veterans are unaware that they even exist.

The Veterans Resource Fair is open to all free of charge. No RSVP is necessary. It will take place in P.S./I.S. 49's cafeteria. The school is located at 63-60 80th Street in Middle Village.

Thank you to all service members, past and present, for your service to our country

QUEENS TOURISM COUNCIL

IT'S IN QUEENS

(Nov. 5 to Nov. 11)

The baseball action inside Citi Field has settled in for a long winter's nap, but the rest of the borough is alive and kicking with a wide array of fun things to do, including brand new theater, Korean film, live music, Kristallnacht-related discussions, smashing pumpkins, and a Diwali motorcade. Here's the rundown.

Nov. 5, World Premiere of Carefully Taught, through Nov. 21. This modern-day drama centers on the friendship of two schoolteachers–one black and one white. Their bond is shaken when one loses her job, and questions of loyalty and unspoken prejudice rise to the surface. Showtimes are Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays at 8 pm with 2 pm Saturday matinees. $18. Astoria Performing Arts Center at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 30-44 Crescent St., Astoria, www.apacny.org.

Nov. 5, Dalton Trumbo, 8 pm. The charismatic, strong-willed screenwriter Dalton Trumbo won two Academy Awards while he was blacklisted: one under a pseudonym and one using a front. The decision to give him proper screen credit on Spartacus finally broke the Hollywood blacklist. The new feature film Trumbo dramatizes his story. $30. Museum of the Moving Image, 36-01 35th Ave., Kaufman Arts District, www.movingimage.us.

Nov. 6, New York Korean Film Festival, through Nov. 11. This 13th annual festival showcases the Asian nation's cinema doing what it does best: the crime thriller, the romantic fantasy, and feverish erotica. At varying times, nine moves will screen. $20 opening night/$12 afterward. Museum of the Moving Image, 36-01 35th Ave., Kaufman Arts District, www.movingimage.us.

Nov. 6, NEA Jazz Masters Concert, 8 pm. Featuring Jimmy Heath and Barry Harris joined by Michael Mossman (trumpet), Steve Davis (trombone) and Bob Cranshaw (bass), this concert presents music from the catalogues of jazz icons Miles Davis and Cannonball Adderley as well as other jazz standards. $42. Flushing Town Hall, 137-35 Northern Blvd., www.flushingtownhall.org.

Nov. 6, Pajama Party with Virgil the Turkey, 6:30 pm. Wear pajamas, learn about turkeys, meet a live turkey, and hear turkey tales from a professional interactive storyteller. $16, registration is required. Alley Pond Environmental Center, 228-06 Northern Blvd., Douglaston, www.alleypond.com.

Nov. 7, Diwali Motorcade, 4 pm. Celebrate the Hindu Festival of Lights with chanting, dancing, music, food, and a motorcade. Free. Liberty Avenue and 133rd Street, Richmond Hill, www.diwalimotorcade.com.

Nov. 7, Dark Bargain Talk, 3 pm. Lawrence Goldstone discusses his book, Dark Bargain: Slavery, Profits and the Struggle for the Constitution, which highlights the events leading up to the Constitutional Convention as well as the pivotal role of slavery in the forging of this important document. Readers are able to visualize Rufus King's outspoken nature regarding the proportion of representatives in northern free states versus southern slave states. Free. King Manor Museum, 150-03 Jamaica Ave., Jamaica, www.kingmanor.org.

Nov. 7, NYC Compost Project: Pumpkin Smash 2015, 10 am to 2 pm. Bring your own pumpkins, Jack-O-Lanterns and gourds… and smash them. The NYC compost project will convert them into compost for city parks and green spaces. Free. Lou Lodati Playground, Skillman Avenue and 43rd Street, Sunnyside, www.queensbotanical.org/programs/events.

Nov. 7, Another Land, 1 pm. Artist Leah Raintree discusses her photographic series Another Land, a body of work that takes as its point of departure a 1968 sculpture of the same name by Isamu Noguchi. She considers the evolution of space-imaging technology alongside increased understanding of human impact on the earth and how these lines of inquiry influence artistic production. The talk is followed by a viewing of Another Land at Socrates Sculpture Park. Noguchi Museum, 9-01 33rd Road, LIC, www.noguchi.org.

Nov. 7, Rhythm Meets Gospel: Conjunto Kathari, 2:30 pm. A collaborative effort of African-Latino rhythms from the Caribbean joined with Gospel to create a musical extravaganza. Free. Highland Avenue Church, 160-20 Highland Ave., Jamaica, www.queenscouncilarts.org.

Nov. 7, Frederick Wiseman Retrospective: High School II, 3 pm. Legendary documentary filmmaker Wiseman has made nine feature-length documentaries on NYC. High School II offers an optimistic view on the future of public education. Focusing on Central Park East Secondary School—a successful, racially diverse alternative high school in Spanish Harlem, where 85-95% of graduates go on to four-year colleges—the film highlights the school's administration and approach to learning, which places emphasis on intellectual curiosity, speculation, interdisciplinary study, and open discussions of race, class, and gender inequalities. $12. College Hoops Set to Open

It's the time of the year for basketball, with the college and pro teams getting ready for their seasons , whether they compete independently or in a conference or league. Mot of the college teams are in league competition, whether it be in Divisions I, II or III, or in a junior college circuit. Their ultimate goal is to compete in a post season tournament , the first step in a national tournament. With the Knicks or the Nets, a National Basketball Association post season tournament better known as the playoffs is their priority.

The first teams to get on a court are the colleges, the junior, and then the senior ones. Here in Queens the fans have the Big East Conference, and the lone one in this area is St. John's University Chris Mullin returns to his alma mater at St. John's University.

The Big East Tournament once again is being held at Madison Square Garden in March. It happens to be the longest running post season tournament at the same venue that usually sells out for all of the sessions.

Even though last year, the Red Storm didn't go far in post season action, still the fans came out and cheered them on.

"We had an exciting end to the season last year at the Garden…., " said Val Ackerman, Commissioner of the Big East Conference. "We're looking forward to another great finish when we return to the Garden in March."

Here in Queens the Red Storm should have an exciting season when they start action with an opener against non-league rival Wagner College of Staten Island on November. And that's when Mullin will make his debut as a coach in a game.

However, when the Big East Conference pre-season team poll was released, the conference coaches picked St. John's to finish tenth.

During the off season, the Red Storm administration chose an interim new athletic direct to run operation of all the sports. He is Joe Oliva, Esq. And on the basketball court there will be a new look with a lot of new faces in an attempt to turn things around and go far in the tournament. At press time, all five starting positions are up in the air. That's what the exhibition games are for.

The Big East coaches and athletic directors of the teams thus welcome Mullin back to New York and the conference.

Mullin is very familiar with St. John's, for he played for the Red Storm from 1981 through 1985 and led them to four post season NCAA tournaments, and one Final Four, all as a player. With Mullin as a player, the Red Storm posted an incredible 98-30 record.

He then went on to post an incredible National Basketball Association career, which included a being a five time NBA all-star player and as an executive with the Golden State Warriors. This year seems to be another positive step in building momentum toward a winning season here in Queens.

The Red Storm players are feeling that this year they will be playing under a great coach . The players are trying to focus ahead and prepare very well for their games, which also include action at Madison Square Garden.

BP Katz Thanks The Mets For Their Amazin' Season

Borough President Melinda Katz stated the following in response to the conclusion of the 2015 World Series:

"Thanks to the New York Mets for this Amazin' season, which produced a well-deserved National League championship as a result of their excellent play and the smart mid-season trades made by the team's front office. Although losing in the World Series is hard, we can take pride in the fact that the Mets played with heart and determination and represented Queens and all of New York City in an exceptional manner. The team also has a bright future ahead of it with its outstanding young pitching staff. We'll get 'em next year!"

110th Precinct Community Council November Meeting Information

The 110th Precinct Community Council will hold its next meeting on Thursday, November 12 at 7:00 pm at Saint Bartholomew Church; 43-22 Ithaca Street in Elmhurst, Queens. A representative from the FDNY Fire Safety Education Unit will be the guest speaker. The Commanding Officer of the 110th Precinct, Deputy Inspector Christopher M. Manson, will be on hand to discuss crime and quality of life issues. The Cop-of-the-Month Award will also be presented to honor the achievements of officers from the 110th Precinct.

Elmont Rallies in Support of NY Cosmos' Soccer Stadium Proposal

Hundreds of Residents Rally in Support of the Privately Funded, Multi-Use Project That Would Create more than 2,000 Permanent Jobs, Create Millions in Economic Revenue and be Built by 100% Union Labor

A large crowd of Long Island union members and Elmont residents rallied on Thursday in support of a plan to build a world-class sports facility for the New York Cosmos soccer team. Political and labor leaders joined the protesters to support the project, which is largely consistent with the Elmont Coalition for Sustainable Development's plan to rejuvenate the area. A wide range of civil society organizations were represented at the rally, demonstrating broad popular support the development project.

The diverse group of supporters including Republican State Senator Jack M. Martins and President of the Long Island Federation of Labor John R. Durso. Other notable attendees came from the Building Trades Council of Nassau and Suffolk Counties, the Elmont Coalition for Sustainable Development and the Elmont NAACP.

"The NY Cosmos have committed to using union labor on a $400 million project," John R. Durso, President of the Long Island Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO. "When you use union labor, you are providing opportunities for local people to do local work. This project provides jobs for members and economic development which this community needs."

"The Building and Construction Trades Council of Nassau and Suffolk Counties has 59,000 members that have and will continue to make a career as skilled tradesmen building our communities," Dick O'Kane, President, Building Trades Council of Nassau and Suffolk Counties. "This project will strengthen the careers of so many of our members, many of whom live and could potentially work right here in Elmont."

Many attendees expressed frustration that the plan, a multi-use proposal that would provide a badly needed economic jolt to the community, has been held up. They emphasized that economic development was a vital concern to community members, and hoped that the state would move forward with this important project.

"This project would be an economic boon for the community and enliven an area that is desperate for economic stimulus. It's amazing to me that the State can issue an RFP and then not only doesn't chose a project for three years but can't even tell you when we might get an answer," said Claudine Hall, president of the Jamaica Square Improvement League.

"ESD has not provided any clear answers to Elmont homeowners or businesses on the redevelopment of the Belmont property," said the President of Elmont School Board of Education, Michael Jaime. "This property needs to be elevated to a world renowned sporting and entertainment complex to spur economic rebirth in this region. A parking lot to local car dealers will no longer be tolerated."

"For too long we have seen the land sit idle and unused, we are tired of waiting. This project will bring thousands of jobs to our community and we need it now," said Sandra Smith, chairperson for the Elmont Coalition for Sustainable Development.

"The Elmont community strongly supports the Cosmos proposal and it would a great loss for this community and our economy if the State does not chose a project, and soon," said Richard DeBrosse, local attorney and youth soccer organizer.

The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure.
In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process.
To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department of Financial Services at 1-800-342-3736 or visit the Department's website at www.dfs.ny.gov.
FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS
Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services.

Assemblyman Mike Miller helps create scholarship program for STEM students

Choosing a college major can be an intimidating process. Students entering higher education today have a vast selection of colleges and majors to choose from, but they face the decision knowing they are likely to take on burdensome student debt to finance their futures. For students who love to solve problems, want to make the world a better place and constantly wonder about how things work, a career in a Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) field can be an attractive option.

This is especially true because many of the best-paying, most secure jobs are STEM-related, and these opportunities continue to multiply. In New York State, STEM jobs are expected to grow 14 percent between 2014 and 2024, while other jobs will grow just 9 percent. Yet employers struggle to fill these positions because there are more jobs than there are workers qualified to do them, which hurts our state's businesses.

To solve this mismatch, New York State created an exciting new scholarship program for high-achieving high school students. Under the New York State Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Incentive Program, students in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes who plan to study STEM at a SUNY or CUNY school can earn full-tuition scholarships for four- or five-year programs. In return, those students must keep their grades up and work and live in the state for five consecutive years after graduation in a STEM-related field. Not only will this scholarship help inspire more students to enroll in STEM majors, it also keeps them from being saddled with crushing student loan debt upon graduation.

This incentive program is a win-win for employers searching for top talent and for high school students interested in pursuing rewarding STEM careers. By offering scholarships to our best and brightest, we're helping put more kids on the path to a brighter future and investing in the future of our state. It's vital to New York State's success that STEM-educated professionals connect with the employers who need their unique talents. A strong economic future in New York State depends on preparing students for the jobs of today and tomorrow as well as encouraging graduates to stay and put down roots. Ultimately, their talents will benefit all of us.

For more information or to apply for this scholarship, visit the program's website (www.hesc.ny.gov/stem). As always, if you have questions about this or any other issue, please call me at 718-805-0950 or send me an email at millermg@assembly.state.ny.us.

City Hall Meets Roosevelt Avenue

City Hall Meets Roosevelt Avenue As the City Council works on legislation to revamp street vendor permitting, Councilwoman Julissa Ferreras-Copeland invited two of Speaker Mark-Viverito's top legislative aides to Corona to have an inside look at the complexities: health and sanitation issues, the challenges small businesses are facing and impossible regulations on vendors. She walked them through Roosevelt Avenue from 82nd Street to Junction Blvd where vendors could be seen selling everything from Mexican tamales to artisan goods and local fruits and vegetables.
